

“Authentic Flavors of Unrefined Sugarcane Product Portfolio”

FEDEPANELA

LA VIDA SABE A PANELA

Solid Panela (unrefined sugar cane)

Made from sugarcane juice that is cooked and concentrated into a thick syrup. The syrup is then beaten to induce natural crystallization and poured into molds, which give it its final solid shape.

This type of panela retains its original composition, free of refining or additives, giving it a high energy value and unique traditional properties.

We offer a wide range of presentations, tailored to different uses and consumer preferences:

Powdered Panela (unrefined sugar cane)

A solid product obtained by dehydrating sugarcane juice sourced from various regions of Colombia. Its artisanal production process preserves its nutritional properties, retaining a high energy value and authentic flavor, with no need for additives or refining.

Available in two lines: conventional, Flavored made from traditional crops, and organic, made with sugarcane grown under certified agroecological practices. Both are produced in facilities that meet health, quality, and safety standards, ensuring traceability from origin to finished product.

Ideal for consumers who value natural, sustainable products backed by controlled processes.

Liquor (Spirits)

Artisanal sugarcane-based spirits represent an ancestral tradition that blends folk knowledge, natural ingredients, and carefully preserved distillation techniques. This category includes aguardiente, rum, aperitifs, and fermented beverages, made from sugarcane juice or panela.

Each bottle holds the richness of our land and the work of communities that value authenticity, along with a flavor born from natural, sustainable processes. These spirits offer a unique sensory experience: sweet, warm, and deep notes that capture the spirit of sugarcane in its purest form.

With a wide variety of profiles—from the boldness of aguardiente to the smooth aroma of a fermented beverage—this product line is ideal for those seeking authenticity, tradition, and quality in every sip.

Cane Syrup

Cane syrup is the result of a slow, natural cooking process of sugarcane juice, which preserves its original properties and concentrates the full richness of the land into its flavor. This thick, glossy, deeply aromatic product is a natural and wholesome alternative to refined sugar, rooted in tradition and time-honored knowledge.

From this base, derivatives such as jams, spreads, and artisanal sauces are made, blending the authentic sweetness of sugarcane with a variety of ingredients to create unique, high-value-added products.
